To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to support mandatory coverage of contraceptives and sterilization by health insurance. These are vital services that save taxpayers millions of dollars in the long term.

This coverage empowers individuals to decide if they wish to use those services. If the religious organizations have convinced the individual that such services are wrong, then the individual will not use them.

Any restrictions on providing these services imposes someone else's religious beliefs on other individuals.

I oppose the wars, capital punishment, and some other policies of the government, but still pay my taxes. So, having the majority of people pay for these services through health insurance is no different, as far as I'm concerned.

Please do not cave in to religious group pressures on this matter.

Thanks.

Sincerely,
Monica Martino
